

SBCC STUDENTS RAISE MONEY FOR RWANDA

800,000 thousand Rwandan genocide survivors to this day have no place to call home. This struck a chord with the students of City College. After a stirring guest presentation from a human rights activist who had recently spent time in both Rwanda and Darfur, the students of SBCC are motivated to act. The class has a specific goal in mind; In order to directly affect the lives of a group of orphans, the class hopes to raise at least $5,700 to build a self-sustaining house for a group of survivors.

The two classes involved have collaborated, organized and planned a series of fundraising efforts. “3 Days of Change”, as the event is being called, will take place on the SBCC Campus from November 27th-29th and culminating with a Community Marketplace on Saturday, Dec. 1 from 10-3 at SBCC.

3 ways YOU can get involved:

- 1) Be a vendor at the Community Marketplace on 12/1: Vendor Registration on Back

We weren't there for Rwanda in 1994 as the nation suffered through the fastest killing spree in modern history, but we can be there for them today. SHINE BRIGHT RWANDA
